This online catalog is for the academic year beginning August 1, 2013. It contains Northwestern University regulations and information about degree programs and academic resources offered at Northwestern University in Qatar, including the delivery of baccalaureate programs authorized by the University’s School of Communication and the Medill School of Journalism. Also described are courses in the liberal arts offered at NU-Q, including those developed by the University’s Judd A. and Marjorie Weinberg College of Arts and Sciences in Evanston.

Failure to read this catalog does not excuse a student from knowing and complying with its content.

Northwestern University reserves the right to change—without notice—any statement in this catalog concerning, but not limited to, rules, policies, tuition, fees, curricula and courses. In exceptional circumstances, Northwestern University reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to waive any documentation normally required for admission. It also reserves the right to admit or deny a student admission whenever it believes that it has sufficient evidence for the decision.

Northwestern University does not discriminate or permit discrimination by any member of its community against any individual on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, parental status, marital status, age, disability, citizenship or veteran status in matters of admissions, employment, housing or services, or in the educational programs or activities it operates. Any alleged violations of this policy or questions regarding the law with respect to nondiscrimination should be directed to Director of Equal Employment Opportunity and Access, 720 University Place, Evanston, Illinois 60208-1147, phone 847-491-7458; or to the Office of Human Resources for Northwestern University in Qatar, phone 974-4454-5121.

Harassment, whether verbal, physical or visual, that is based on any of these characteristics is a form of discrimination. This includes harassing conduct affecting tangible job benefits, interfering unreasonably with an individual’s academic or work performance, or creating what a reasonable person would sense is an intimidating, hostile or offensive environment.

While Northwestern University is committed to the principles of free inquiry and free expression, discrimination and harassment identified in this policy are neither legally protected expression nor the proper exercise of academic freedom.

Northwestern University in Qatar

Launched in August 2008, the Northwestern University in Qatar campus in Education City, Doha offers the Northwestern University Medill School of Journalism bachelor of science degree program in Journalism and the Northwestern University School of Communication bachelor of science degree program in Media Industries and Technologies (MIT). Liberal arts courses at Northwestern University in Qatar are also available.

Northwestern University in Qatar is a partnership with the Qatar Foundation for Education, Science and Community Development, located in Doha. The independent, private, nonprofit and chartered organization was founded in 1995 by Sheikh Hamad Bin Khalifa Al-Thani, the Father Emir of Qatar. The mission of the foundation “is to prepare the people of Qatar and the region to meet the challenges of an ever-changing world, and to make Qatar a leader in innovative education and research.” Chaired by Sheikha Mozah Bint Nasser, consort of the Father Emir, the Qatar Foundation includes more than 30 member organizations that are committed to excellence in education, scientific research and community development. Education City, the Qatar Foundation’s flagship project and home to Northwestern University in Qatar, aspires to be a center of excellence in education and research that will help transform Qatar into a knowledge-based society.

Northwestern University in Qatar is also a partner with the five other American universities located in Education City:

- Carnegie Mellon University in Qatar: offering undergraduate degree programs in computer science, business administration and information systems:
- Georgetown University School of Foreign Service in Qatar: offering a major in international politics, leading to a bachelor of science in foreign service degree
- Texas A&M University at Qatar: offering undergraduate programs in electrical, mechanical, chemical and petroleum engineering
- Virginia Commonwealth University in Qatar: offering undergraduate degree programs in graphic, interior and fashion design
- Weill Cornell Medical College in Qatar: offering a six-year integrated program of study leading to an MD degree

Northwestern University in Qatar students are able to cross-register for courses at these other schools.

The Undergraduate Experience

Adhering to the same standards as Northwestern’s Evanston, Illinois campus, NU-Q provides an educational and extracurricular environment committed to excellent teaching, innovative research, and the personal and intellectual growth of its students. It is a place where faculty and staff work closely with students and with each other, and where students at all levels interact as part of an innovative and technologically sophisticated learning community.

Northwestern’s emphasis on effective communication, regardless of the field of study, fosters the ability to think analytically and write and speak clearly and persuasively. At the heart of a Northwestern education is the belief that a solid foundation in the liberal arts is essential, regardless of one’s future plans. In both its academic and extracurricular programs, Northwestern encourages students to obtain a broad understanding of the world in which they live, and to cultivate the habits of critical inquiry, creativity and reflection that characterize the educated person. Toward this end, students are encouraged to pursue independent study, internships, research, study abroad and other school activities in addition to their traditional coursework.

Northwestern graduates are exceptionally well prepared for academic and career success, and many become leaders in their fields, accomplished individuals and responsible citizens.

Student Demographics

Northwestern University in Qatar follows the practice of Northwestern’s Evanston campus in recruiting students of demonstrated academic achievement from diverse social, ethnic and economic backgrounds. Approximately 40 percent of NU-Q students are Qatari citizens. Other individuals are drawn from the Gulf region, Asia, North America, Europe and elsewhere, and provide new understanding and inspiration to others the community.

Historical Overview
Excellence has been Northwestern’s goal since nine pioneering Chicagoans met in 1850 to establish an educational institution that would rival any in the eastern United States. That group — a physician, three attorneys, two businessmen and three Methodist clergymen — envisioned a university “of the highest order of excellence” to serve the people of the Northwest Territory. Northwestern University was officially established on January 28, 1851, when its act of incorporation was passed by the Illinois legislature.

In 1853, the founders purchased a 379-acre tract of farmland along Lake Michigan, 12 miles north of Chicago, as a site for the new university. The location so impressed founder Orrington Lunt that he wrote, “I could not rid myself of the fairy visions constantly presenting themselves in fanciful beauties—of the gently waving lake—its pebbly shore — the beautiful oak openings and bluffs beyond.”

The town that grew up around Northwestern was named Evanston in honor of one of the University’s most prominent founders, John Evans. A physician and businessman, Evans provided the cash to place a $1,000 down payment on the land and assumed responsibility for the mortgage covering the balance. Evans was chairman of the board from the University’s founding until his death in 1897.

After completing its first building in 1855, Northwestern began classes that autumn with two faculty members and 10 male students. In 1869, it enrolled its first female students, thereby becoming a pioneer in the higher education of women. By 1900, the University was composed of a liberal arts college and six professional schools, including the schools of law and medicine, with a total of 2,700 students. With the establishment of the Graduate School in 1910, Northwestern adopted the German university model of providing graduate as well as undergraduate instruction and stressing research along with teaching.

In November 2007, Northwestern University and the Qatar Foundation signed an agreement creating Northwestern’s first overseas campus to offer undergraduate degree programs.

Today, Northwestern enjoys a position as one of the world’s leading private research universities. Approximately 17,000 full-time and part-time students are enrolled in 11 colleges and schools located on lakefront campuses in Evanston and Chicago, and about 160 students are enrolled on the Qatar campus.

Accreditation
Northwestern University is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools in the United States. The journalism program is accredited by the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communication.

Campuses

Evanston Campus
Undergraduate instruction at Northwestern takes place primarily on the Evanston campus. The Evanston schools and other institutional divisions, in order of establishment, are as follows:

- The Judd A. and Marjorie Weinberg College of Arts and Sciences (1851) offers the degree of bachelor of arts.
- The School of Communication (1878), with departments of communication sciences and disorders, communication studies, performance studies, radio/television/film, and theater, offers a bachelor of science in communication degree and a bachelor of arts in communication degree.
- The Henry and Leigh Bienen School of Music (1895) offers the degrees of bachelor of music and bachelor of arts in music.
- The J. L. Kellogg School of Management (1908) offers undergraduate certificates in financial economics and managerial analytics, as well as the master of business administration (MBA) degree.
• The Robert R. McCormick School of Engineering and Applied Science (1909) offers the bachelor of science degree in applied mathematics, biomedical engineering, chemical engineering, civil engineering, computer engineering, computer science, electrical engineering, environmental engineering, industrial engineering, manufacturing and design engineering, materials science and engineering, mechanical engineering, and medical engineering.
• The Graduate School (1910) controls all advanced programs leading to the degrees of doctor of philosophy, master of arts, master of fine arts, master of public health and master of science.
• Summer Session (1920) provides summer programs for undergraduate, graduate and visiting students.
• The Medill School of Journalism, Media and Integrated Marketing Communication (1921) offers the bachelor of science in journalism degree, master of science degrees in journalism and integrated marketing communications, and undergraduate certificate in integrated marketing communications.
• The School of Education and Social Policy (1926) offers the bachelor of science in education and social policy.

Chicago Campus
Schools and institutional divisions on the Chicago campus, in order of establishment, are as follows:
• The Feinberg School of Medicine (1859) offers the degrees of doctor of medicine and doctor of physical therapy.
• The School of Law (1859) offers the degrees of juris doctor, master of laws, master of laws in taxation and doctor of juridical science.
• The School of Continuing Studies (1933) is the continuing education division of the University, providing adults an opportunity to return to school part-time or full-time on evenings and weekends.

Qatar Campus
Education City is a 2,500-acre campus about 15 miles northwest of downtown Doha. NU-Q now occupies about 32,000 square feet (2,973 square meters) on the top floor of the Education City academic building housing Carnegie Mellon University in Qatar, and as well a separate studio building that houses a television studio, black box theater, classrooms and faculty offices.

Northwestern University in Qatar’s permanent home in Education City will open in 2015. Highly regarded architect Antoine Predock has planned for more than 330,000 square feet of space, including:
• 40,000 square feet (3,716 square meters) dedicated to four video production studios
• Two 150-person lecture halls, and a black-box theater
• A 9,000-square-foot (836-square-meter) library for up to 35,000 volumes
• Office facilities for more than 50 faculty and 60 staff
• A conference center for events and special programs
• Student lounge and activity spaces
• About 19,000 square feet (1,765 square meter) of classrooms, labs, small lecture halls, and seminar rooms

The design includes gathering spaces with comfortable seating to encourage informal faculty-student and student-student interactions and an innovative museum. Video screens and other technology will allow students to use “nodes” for presentations. The largest of these areas, which collectively promote an informal learning environment for new media techniques, will be equipped with a large video wall displaying a variety of media sources and student and faculty projects.
Undergraduate Education

Admission

General Requirements for Admission
Northwestern University in Qatar attracts and enrolls a scholastically and creatively talented student body that reflects a broad spectrum of ideas, backgrounds and experiences. Together, they contribute to a diverse and intellectually enriching campus community.

Candidates for admission should demonstrate a level of performance in curricular and extracurricular areas that indicates they will be able to succeed in a competitive academic environment. Careful attention is given to the ability of each candidate as evidenced by academic records and the results of entrance tests, as well as by indicators of character and personality. NU-Q seeks students who are committed to the fields of communication and journalism and who have the high level of proficiency in English necessary for success in its programs.

Detailed information on the admission process may be found at www.qatar.northwestern.edu. Inquiries regarding admission may be directed to admissions@qatar.northwestern.edu.

Admission Statement for Individuals with Disabling Conditions
Northwestern University in Qatar has a strong institutional commitment to the principle of diversity in all areas. Admission to Northwestern University in Qatar and any of its sponsored programs is open to all qualified individuals. Northwestern University in Qatar does not discriminate on the basis of an individual’s disability and complies with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) as amended in its admissions, accessibility, treatment and employment of students in its programs and activities. Northwestern University in Qatar provides academic accommodations and auxiliary aids to students with disabling conditions, as defined under United States law, who are otherwise qualified to meet the institution’s academic requirements. Services for Students with Disabilities is located in the Student Affairs suite.

Advanced Placement
Northwestern awards credit in many areas for Advanced Placement Examination scores of 5; in some cases credit is also awarded for scores of 3 and 4. Specific questions concerning Northwestern’s Advanced Placement policies should be addressed to NU-Q’s Office of Academic Affairs. Northwestern also awards credit for distinguished performance on the British General Certificate of Education (A-Level) Examinations, the higher-level examinations of the International Baccalaureate and certain other international university examinations, including the French Baccalaureate, the German Abitur and the Swiss Maturity Certificate.

Northwestern also recognizes college credits earned by students before entering the University as freshmen. To qualify for such recognition, the courses must be similar to courses offered at Northwestern, must have been taken at a college or university whose accreditation is recognized by Northwestern, must not have been submitted in partial fulfillment of the normal secondary school graduation requirement, and must have been given on the campus of a college or university and taken primarily by bona fide college students (i.e., high school graduates pursuing a college degree). If candidates have taken college courses that do not qualify for credit under these conditions, they should take Advanced Placement Examinations in the appropriate subjects.

Transfer Credit
Students may be considered for admission as transfers from another college or university provided they have completed one full year of university studies by the application deadline, are in good standing at their postsecondary institution and have maintained at least a B average in rigorous academic courses. If students have been enrolled full-time at any institution except Northwestern, they cannot be considered for freshman admission and must meet the criteria to apply as transfer candidates. Northwestern University in Qatar enrolls transfer students in the fall semester only.
Transfer students must complete at least the last 16 semester courses and four full-time semesters in residence at NU-Q to be eligible for a bachelor’s degree. Given the sequential nature of the NU-Q curricula in communication and journalism, it is likely that most transfer students would require more than four semesters to earn a degree at NU-Q.

Returning Students
Students who withdraw from the University and wish to return must submit a Returning Student Application Form to the Office of Academic Affairs six weeks before the desired date of re-entry. Students who want credit for course work taken at another institution must submit an official transcript to the Office of Academic Affairs.

Financial Regulations

Withdrawal from the University: Refunds
Students who withdraw from NU-Q must immediately file a withdrawal form, available at the Office of Academic Affairs. The completed form, bearing the required signatures, must be filed at the Office of Academic Affairs.

Tuition deposits are not refundable under any circumstances. Tuition, less the tuition deposit, and refundable fees are refundable depending on the percentage of time the student was enrolled in the semester. The following policy applies to withdrawals:

- When or before the first 10 percent of the semester has elapsed, 100 percent of the tuition (less the deposit) is refunded.
- After 10 percent but not more than 25 percent of the semester has elapsed, 75 percent of the tuition is refunded.
- After 25 percent but not more than 50 percent of the semester has elapsed, 50 percent of the tuition is refunded.
- After 50 percent of the semester has elapsed, no refunds are given.

Financial aid recipients who withdraw from NU-Q may be required to return a portion of their aid. Details may be obtained from the NU-Q Student Financial Aid Services officer.

Changes of Registration: Refunds
No refund or bill reduction is made on any course dropped after the fifth day of classes in the semester.

Financial Obligations
Students whose University bills are overdue may not be given an academic transcript until all financial obligations are paid in full. Students whose accounts are overdue must pay a late-payment penalty of 820 QAR (US$225). The registration of a student whose bills are past due may be cancelled or blocked.

Each student is liable for any costs associated with the collection of his or her past-due account.

Academic Regulations

Registration and Credit
The dates of registration for each semester are announced in advance. Inconvenience, illness and other personal reasons for registering late are not accepted as reasons for waiving the fee. Late registration is permitted only through the fifth full day of classes in any semester. Credit is not given for work in a course in which a student is not properly registered. Duplicate course entries remain on the student’s permanent record and are used to calculate the cumulative grade point average. However, credit is awarded only once.

Credit is not given for certain courses that are prerequisites for a more advanced course if the prerequisite is taken after the more advanced course has been completed. Waiver of prerequisites for admission to courses may be obtained from the instructor concerned or the program in which the course is offered.

Students may not enroll in more than four semester courses, except by permission of the academic adviser. This regulation applies to total credit for courses taken in other institutions in addition to credit obtained in residence at NU-Q.

Failure to read the registration information does not excuse students from compliance with the information and regulations stated therein.

Changes of Registration
Changes in registration in fall and spring semesters are subject to the following provisions:

- In no case may a course be added after the fifth day of classes. No course may be dropped after the ninth Thursday of classes.
- Undergraduate students may change registrations from grade to the pass/no credit (P/N) option or vice versa through the fourth Monday of the semester. Check regulations of the Medill and School of Communication programs for specific information on the P/N option.
- To add a class, students must log on to CAESAR and add the course to their record. Some classes require special permission; see the class schedule for specific course information.
- To drop a course, students must log on to CAESAR and drop the course from the record through the first Thursday of the semester. In most cases, no special consent is required. Academic adviser consent is required between the second Sunday through the ninth Thursday of the semester.
- Changes in ungraded sections (laboratory or discussion) before the add deadline must be made in CAESAR.
- A course dropped by the drop deadline does not appear on the permanent academic record, and no grade is recorded.
- Failure to drop a course within the time allowed is regarded as a failure and is recorded with a grade of F.

Interschool Transfers
Students who wish to transfer between the journalism and the communication programs must have an inter-school transfer approved by the directors of the two programs and the Senior Academic Officer. A return to the original school must be approved in the same way. Approval of an inter-school transfer is usually contingent on satisfactory performance in the original school.

Cancellation of Registration
Students who complete advance registration for a semester and later decide not to attend classes that semester must notify the Office of Academic Affairs in writing before the first day of classes of the semester to avoid being charged the applicable tuition and fees.

Withdrawal from the University
Students who wish to withdraw from Northwestern University in Qatar after registering for classes in any semester must file a withdrawal form (available at the Office of Academic Affairs). The withdrawal takes effect the day the completed form, bearing the required signatures, is received at the Office of Academic Affairs. Students who have taken the final exam may not withdraw and must take the grade they earned. (See also Withdrawal from the University: Refunds under Financial Regulations.)

Readmission and Re-entry to the University
Students who have not registered for one or more semesters of an academic year must file at the Office of Academic Affairs an application to re-enter no later than six weeks before the first day of registration of the semester in which they plan to return.
Students are not required to file the application to re-enter if they
- Have registered during the spring semester and intend to return in the fall
- Have registered in the spring semester and intend to return during Summer Session of the same year

Students must obtain advance approval from their academic adviser if they wish to transfer credit for work taken elsewhere during an absence from Northwestern. An official signed and sealed transcript of that work must be furnished to the Office of Academic Affairs before the end of the next semester in residence at Northwestern, or credit for such work is not allowed. If a student interrupts a program of study for an extended period of time and if degree requirements are changed during this period, the new requirements normally must be met. Any modification of the requirements is made by the appropriate administrative officers of the school in which the student is registered. If a leave lasts for longer than five years, a student will have to re-apply to the University.

Work at Other Institutions
After enrolling at NU-Q, students who want to study at other accredited institutions and transfer credit for that work to NU-Q must obtain advance approval of their proposed study. Forms for obtaining such approval are available from an academic adviser.

If courses are taken elsewhere during an absence from Northwestern (or during the summer), an official transcript of the work must be on file in the Office of Academic Affairs before the end of the next semester in residence at Northwestern, or credit for such work is not allowed. Students may not register concurrently at NU-Q and at another institution and receive transfer credit for work taken at the other institution unless permission is granted in advance by the director of the student’s program.

Application for a Degree
Students must file a degree application in the Office of Academic Affairs one calendar year before anticipated graduation.

Early Graduation
Students who desire to graduate early must notify the Office of Academic Affairs in writing at least two semesters before the proposed date of graduation.

Academic Advising
Academic advising is an essential component of an undergraduate education. All first-year students are assigned an academic adviser in the Office of Academic Affairs. The adviser offers support and guidance, and is a valuable source of information regarding courses and academic goals. First-year students are required to meet with their advisers no fewer than three times during the first semester.

Helping students make the most of their time at the University, advisers assist students with a variety of issues, including course planning, degree requirements, registration, study abroad, inter-school transfers, petitions to graduate, and resources within and outside NU-Q.

Classification of Students*
Students are classified as follows:
- Senior: has 22+ units
- Junior: has 14-21.99 units
- Sophomore: has 7-13.99 units
- Freshman: has 0-6.99 units
* Amended on October 29, 2013

Student status is defined as follows:
- Full-time: enrolled in at least 3 semester courses or the equivalent
- Half-time: enrolled in at least 2 but fewer than 3 semester courses or the equivalent
• Part-time: enrolled in fewer than 2 semester courses or the equivalent (also referred to as less than half-time)

Grading Policies
The following grading system is used in computing the grade point average:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>
<th>Grade Points</th>

The following notations are ignored in computing the grade point average:
- P: Pass with credit
- N: No grade, no credit
- K: In progress
- S: Satisfactory: noncredit course
- U: Unsatisfactory: noncredit course
- W: Withdrawn by permission

Pass/No Credit (P/N)
The P (pass) or N (no credit) option allows full-time students to explore fields beyond the areas of their specializations without concern about grade point average.

Incomplete Course Work
At the end of a semester a grade of X or Y will be given if the instructor believes the student has a reasonable chance of passing the course by taking an examination or turning in the required work, or both. Students should contact the Office of Academic Affairs for regulations concerning X and Y grades.

If a grade of X or Y is to be changed and credit established, the deficiencies must be made up before the end of the next semester in which the student is in residence in any school of Northwestern, or within one year after the course was offered if the student is not in residence, or credit is forfeited.

A notation of K must be resolved before graduation. An unresolved K will be changed to Y and the grade point average recomputed.

Regular Examinations
Regular course examinations are held during the last week of each semester at the times indicated in the semester class schedule. Summer Session examinations are usually held at the last class meeting. Students are responsible for knowing the time and location of each examination. Early examinations are not permitted. Permission to be absent from the final examination is given by the instructor only for causes beyond the student’s control. Normally, such permission must be secured in advance of the date of the examination. Any deficiency must be made up before the end of the next semester in which the student is in residence in any school of Northwestern, or within one year after the course was offered if not in residence, or credit is forfeited. Final exam conflicts will be resolved on an individual basis. It is the responsibility of the student to inform the Office of Academic Affairs no later than the end of week eight that a conflict will exist.
Makeup of Course Work and Examinations
All undergraduate students in residence in any school of Northwestern University, including NU-Q, must make up grades of X (absent) and Y (incomplete) before the end of the next semester, or credit is forfeited. Students not in residence must make up all such grades within one year after the course was offered, or credit is forfeited. Those not in residence must also apply for any makeup examinations in advance. Permission to take a makeup examination to remove a grade of X must have the written approval of the instructor and the director of the program that offered the course. Makeup examinations are conducted early in each semester. An application for a makeup examination must be filed several weeks in advance at the Office of Academic Affairs.

Class Attendance and Absence
Students are expected to attend all sessions of the courses for which they are registered. Excessive absence is cause for failure in the course. Some courses require attendance at the first class meeting; students may be dropped for nonattendance.

Grade Reports
Semester grades are not mailed but are delivered through CAESAR (www.northwestern.edu/caesar). A printout of the CAESAR record may be made for verification purposes. Notices of deficiencies in scholarship may be reported to the student before the end of the semester, but the University does not assume the responsibility of issuing such warnings.

Transcripts
Students who have satisfied all financial obligations to the University are entitled to an official transcript of their academic records, which they may order from the Office of Academic Affairs.

Except for internal educational uses or as otherwise required by law, Northwestern issues official transcripts only upon written authorization of the student concerned. Because of the confidential nature of a student’s record, telephone or email requests for transcripts will not be accepted. Written requests should be submitted to the Office of Academic Affairs.

Requests for transcripts initiated by persons or agencies other than the student or appropriate educational agencies will not be filled until written authorization has been secured from the student. When these requests can be anticipated, students can avoid delay by providing such authorization in advance.

Current students can print unofficial copies of their transcripts by accessing their student records on CAESAR. Former students who no longer have access to CAESAR should consult the Office of Academic Affairs.

Northwestern University does not release or certify copies of transcripts received from other schools or institutions. Students needing official transcripts from study abroad experiences must request such transcripts from the institution or program attended.

Access to Student Records
Under the U.S. Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), all students have certain rights with regard to their educational records. A copy of Northwestern’s student records policy is available at www.registrar.northwestern.edu/academic_records/FERPA_policy.html. FERPA grants students various rights, including the rights to

- Inspect and review their educational records at Northwestern University
- Request an amendment of their records to ensure that the records are not inaccurate, misleading or otherwise in violation of privacy or other rights
- Consent to release or to restrict disclosure of personally identifiable information contained in their educational records, except under certain limited circumstances when, by law, consent is not required
- File a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by Northwestern University to comply with FERPA requirements

The University’s Use of Email
Email is the University’s mechanism for official communication with students, and Northwestern has the right to expect that students will read official email in a timely fashion. All students are assigned a u.northwestern.edu address that is maintained in the University email directory. Northwestern provides a convenient mechanism for students who want to forward email from the University address to another email address of their choice, but students assume the risk of forwarding email. Failure to receive or read University communication that was sent to the u.northwestern.edu address does not absolve a student from knowing and complying with the content of the communication.

Faculty may use email for communicating with students registered in their classes so that all students will be able to comply with course requirements.

Academic Integrity

Northwestern University in Qatar Integrity Code

All NU-Q students are required to uphold the Northwestern University in Qatar Integrity Code that requires adherence to principles of honesty, fairness and integrity in academic efforts and related professional media, journalism and communication work, whether students are in school, on an internship or a job, or acting as volunteers in a professional or academic activity.

Northwestern Academic Integrity Guidelines

Academic integrity at Northwestern is based on a respect for individual achievement that lies at the heart of academic culture. Every faculty member and student, both graduate and undergraduate, belongs to a community of scholars in which academic integrity is a fundamental commitment.

Students enrolled at NU-Q are expected to adhere to the University’s standards of academic integrity. Questions about the acceptability of specific behavior should be addressed to the appropriate faculty member or the director of the student’s program of study. The following is a non-exhaustive list of types of behavior that violate the standards of academic integrity:

- Cheating: using unauthorized notes, study aids or information on an examination; altering a graded work after it has been returned, then submitting the work for regrading; allowing another person to do one’s work and submitting that work under one’s own name; submitting identical or similar papers for credit in more than one course without prior permission from the course instructors

- Plagiarism: submitting material that in part or whole is not entirely one’s own work without attributing those same portions to their correct source (material discussing the use and acknowledgment of sources is available in the Office of Academic Affairs)

- Fabrication: falsifying or inventing any information, data or citation; presenting data that were not gathered in accordance with standard guidelines defining the appropriate methods for collecting or generating data and failing to include an accurate account of the method by which the data were gathered or collected

- Obtaining an unfair advantage: stealing, reproducing, circulating or otherwise gaining access to examination materials prior to the time authorized by the instructor; stealing, destroying, defacing or concealing library materials with the purpose of depriving others of their use; unauthorized collaborating on an academic assignment; retaining, possessing, using or circulating previously given examination materials, where those materials clearly indicate that they are to be returned to the instructor at the conclusion of the examination; intentionally obstructing or interfering with another student’s academic work; otherwise undertaking activity with the purpose of creating or obtaining an unfair academic advantage over other students’ academic work

- Aiding and abetting dishonesty: providing material, information or other assistance to another person with knowledge that such aid could be used in any of the violations stated above; providing false information in connection with any inquiry regarding academic integrity

- Falsification of records and official documents: altering documents affecting academic records; forging signatures of authorization or falsifying information on an official academic document, grade report, letter of permission, petition, ID card or any other official University document

- Unauthorized access to computerized academic or administrative records or systems: viewing or altering computer records; modifying computer programs or systems; releasing or dispensing information gained via unauthorized access; interfering with the use or availability of computer systems or information
It is the responsibility of every member of the academic community to be familiar with the specific policies of his or her school. A student who violates these policies may be subject to sanctions, including but not limited to one or more of the following: a letter of warning; a defined period of probation with the attachment of conditions; a period of suspension with or without the attachment of conditions; course failure; notation on the official record; exclusion from the University, with notation on the transcript; or revocation of an awarded degree.

A student may not change his or her registration in a course in which a violation of academic integrity has been alleged, regardless of whether the allegation has been referred to the designated school official. Nor may a student receive a University degree while a finding is pending or while a suspension has been imposed pursuant to a finding. Information on procedures that will be followed in cases of alleged dishonesty can be obtained from the Office of Academic Affairs. A complete statement of the University’s principles regarding academic integrity can be obtained from the Office of Academic Affairs.

Academic Standing
The decision concerning the academic standing of a student is the responsibility of the faculty of the school in which the student is registered.

Academic Probation
Academic probation constitutes notice of unsatisfactory academic performance; it is a warning that minimum standards for graduation are not being met. Unless a student demonstrates significant scholastic improvement during the period of probation and thereby indicates ability to fulfill degree requirements within a reasonable period of time, the student may be dismissed from NU-Q. A student will be notified in writing no later than the middle of a term that, because of unsatisfactory work in a previous term or terms, he or she will be excluded in the event of unsatisfactory work during the term for which the notice is issued.

The following are ordinarily placed on academic probation:

- Students who have received final grades below C in two or more courses in any semester or Summer Session
- Sophomores, juniors, or seniors who have a cumulative academic record below a C average on all work attempted at Northwestern University, including Northwestern University in Qatar and cross-registration courses
- Students who have failed to complete at least 3 semester courses or the equivalent in each of two consecutive semesters
- Students who, on account of dropped courses, failure, or uncompleted courses, have failed to earn credit for an average of 3 semester courses per semester after four semesters of residence
- Students who have failed to maintain a 2.0 in MIT courses
- Students who have failed to maintain a 2.25 in journalism classes

Additional conditions of academic probation may be established as NU-Q may deem appropriate.

Removal from Academic Probation
Students on academic probation are ordinarily removed from probation if the deficiencies that resulted in probation have been remedied during the next succeeding semester in residence. Students are rarely removed from probation on the basis of a program consisting of less than four courses graded on a basis other than the pass/no credit option.

If students on probation who receive grades of X or Y are not dismissed, probation continues until they have completed all courses or until the end of the next semester in residence, when the students’ records are again subject to scrutiny.

In no case are students removed from probation at the end of a semester in which they have failed any course.

Academic Suspension or Dismissal
The following is a partial list of categories of students who may be suspended or dismissed for academic deficiencies (in every case, the decision is determined in part by the student’s cumulative academic record):

- Students on academic probation whose academic performance has not improved significantly during the period of probation (which will not normally exceed two consecutive semesters)
- Students not on academic probation who fail in half the work in any semester or Summer Session
- Students who demonstrate flagrant neglect of academic work at any time
- Students who do not make satisfactory progress toward completion of degree requirements

As a matter of general policy, the probation period for a freshman may be extended to the third semester of residence if such extension appears to be in the best interests of the student and NU-Q. Such consideration is not granted to a freshman whose record clearly discloses lack of aptitude or neglect of work.

Disciplinary Suspension or Dismissal
Students suspended from NU-Q may not receive Northwestern credit for academic work at any other institution during the period of suspension.

Graduation with School Honors
Northwestern University in Qatar students receive degrees from the School of Communication and the Medill School of Journalism. Degrees with honors are awarded to the top 25 percent of the graduating class within each undergraduate school, as determined by grades in all work at NU-Q. Students in the highest 5 percent of the class are awarded degrees summa cum laude; those in the next 8 percent are awarded degrees magna cum laude; and those in the next 12 percent are awarded degrees cum laude.

Special Academic Opportunities

Cross-Registration
NU-Q students may cross-register for courses at other Education City universities. Permission to cross-register is granted by the Office of Academic Affairs, which assists in the cross-registration process. Students should meet with their academic adviser to discuss cross-registration policies.

Study Abroad
Northwestern encourages qualified students to study abroad when such study promises to enrich their academic programs. With early planning, most students, regardless of school or major, should be able to study abroad during the academic year and still graduate within four years. Students may also study abroad during the summer on one of Northwestern’s summer programs or on an approved non-Northwestern program.

The Office of Academic Affairs, in conjunction with the Office of Student Affairs, provides information and academic advising services to all students interested in study abroad. All students approved by Northwestern to participate in an unaffiliated program are withdrawn from NU-Q while abroad.

Most Northwestern students studying abroad do so in one of more than 100 programs administered by or affiliated with the University. Students participating in University exchange programs continue to pay Northwestern tuition. For all other programs, students pay the program fee plus a Northwestern administrative fee.

Since study abroad often requires special language or other preparation, interested students should consult with the Office of Academic Affairs early in their NU-Q careers.

Field Study and Internships
Internships and research opportunities are available to NU-Q students. The programs vary greatly; some carry academic credit and/or a stipend. Some are done in conjunction with course work, while others require full-time commitment and may involve living away from Qatar. Field study and internship opportunities are available during both the regular academic year and summer.

Special Courses

Independent Study (399)
Both the communication and the journalism programs offer independent studies for qualified students. A 399 course enables a student to engage in individual special study or research and creative work. The maximum credit a student may receive for 399 (or equivalent independent study) during any one semester is 2 units.

Funding for Research and Creative Work
Northwestern University in Qatar students may apply for funds to support research and creative work. Interested students should meet with the program director to discuss possible sources of funding.
Resources and Services

Library Resources
As members of both the Northwestern and Education City community, students at NU-Q have access to a wealth of library resources and services. As one of the leading private research libraries in the United States, the Northwestern University Library System serves the educational and information needs of its students and faculty, as well as scholars from around the world. Its collection of 5 million volumes and 52 terabytes of unique digital content include a portfolio of distinguished special collections, notably the internationally recognized Africana, Music and Transportation libraries. It connects users to hundreds of scholarly databases with the most comprehensive, specialized and up-to-date information in their fields, and pursues an active role in educating faculty and students in how to make the best use of these resources. Increasingly, it is prioritizing the digitization of materials and collections in order to make them available to any user, any time.

Over eighty percent of the Northwestern University in Qatar library collection is electronic. Even so, the physical collection has grown to comprise more than 24,000 items (out of a projected 150,000 items) that support the research and curricular needs of the university’s programs. The NU-Q web site provides a range of electronic resources, including links to key newspapers and resources in communication, journalism and referencing. Of special note are the library’s online subscriptions to Al Manhal, the world’s only provider of peer-reviewed and copyright-protected Arabic publications, and Zawya.com a preeminent source of Middle East and North Africa business intelligence.

The NU-Q Library is committed to supporting academic excellence. The goal is to provide services to students and faculty that will advance each user’s learning, teaching and research experience. The library partners with faculty and Student Affairs to ensure that all freshmen receive research skills classes during their first semester of study.

Information Technology Services
Northwestern University in Qatar Information Technology (NU-QIT) supports the NU-Q community’s use of technology.

All NU-Q campus space is connected to the internal campus network and to the Internet via high-speed wired and wireless networks. The University’s wireless connectivity allows students using laptops with wireless cards or wireless mobile devices to take advantage of the full range of NU-Q’s online services from any campus location. High-tech conference space is available for collaboration by faculty, staff and students, and allows the community to videoconference with the Northwestern stateside campuses and collaborators around the world. Additionally, state-of-the-art smart classrooms aid instruction and enrich the learning experience.

Every NU-Q student is provided a notebook computer on arriving on campus. Traditional computer lab facilities are also available. The main facilities allow an entire class to meet and work jointly with critical software programs and datasets, to scan and manipulate photos, and to develop web content and animation. Other sites, including the NU-Q editing suites and studio, provide students appropriate hardware and software packages to pursue high-end video and audio capture and editing. Students may check out still and video cameras, as well as other hardware to support the development of original content in a wide variety of media formats.

Northwestern also offers students helpful online services for their University needs. CAESAR (www.northwestern.edu/caesar), a self-service application, allows students to register for classes, search class schedules and course offerings, obtain unofficial transcripts, view financial aid and student account information, maintain directory and emergency contact information, and much more. The Course Management System (http://course-management.northwestern.edu) provides an efficient way for instructors to manage and distribute course materials and communicate with students. In addition, students can communicate and share information with each other online.

At the beginning of each academic year, NU-QIT welcomes new students to Northwestern with a series of information sessions that introduce them to the University’s electronic environment. These sessions prepare students to use the wide range of technology opportunities at Northwestern University in Qatar.
by helping them to understand Northwestern’s electronic identity (NetID) and to master Northwestern University in Qatar’s online resources.

NU-QIT provides technology support via email and its support center. NU-Q’s primary information resource for computing and networking, the center provides phone and in-person consulting on University-supported hardware, software, operating systems and computing facilities. Hours are Sunday through Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. GMT+3. The support center may be reached by emailing helpdesk@qatar.northwestern.edu.

Students are encouraged to review and are expected to abide by the University policies about technology rights and responsibilities found at www.it.northwestern.edu/policies.

Student Services

Division of Student Affairs
Students are encouraged to take advantage of the wealth of opportunities and services available through the NU-Q Division of Student Affairs. This division includes professionals in areas such as student activities, student records, health and wellness, and personal counseling.

The division has three overarching goals:
• To provide essential student and institutional services, programs and facilities
• To maintain high standards of care and effective advocacy for the well-being and safety of all students
• To provide focused co-curricular and extracurricular activities and programs that engage students constructively in University and community life; enable them to develop more holistically as competent individuals prepared to live in a complex, diverse and interconnected world; and enhance and integrate their overall Northwestern experience

Hamid Bin Khalifa Student Center
The nearby Hamid Bin Khalifa Student Center has 192,114 square feet of space on three levels. A comprehensive facility, it includes a food court, recreation area, bookstore, convenience store, wellness center, day-care center, ballroom and conference spaces, art gallery, movie theater, black box theater, student organization space, and student affairs offices.

Residence Halls
Student housing is available for NU-Q students in Qatar Foundation residence halls. Centrally located on the Education City campus and within easy walking distance of NU-Q classrooms and offices, the accommodation has one-, two-, and three-bedroom shared apartments. Each bedroom is shared by two students; every apartment has a bathroom and a kitchen, and every floor has a common laundry area. Halls provide Wi-Fi Internet access, and most have an always-open student social room housing computers and printers with Ethernet access. Every residential building has on-site security 24 hours a day.

New residence halls set to open in 2013 and 2014 will include private units in a single-gender environment. Studio, one-, and two-bedroom apartments will have private bedrooms for each student and private bathrooms. Each residence floor will have multiple kitchens, laundry rooms, lounges for study and activity space. Outside activity space and a convenience store for sundries will be part of each single-gender complex.

A mixed-gender residential community center will include a coffee shop, dining services, Residence Life staff office space and a community-learning center where students of both sexes can work together on projects, presentations and other academic work.

Education City Medical Care
Two clinics serve the Education City community: the Qatar Foundation (QF) Care Clinic and the Recreation Center Clinic. Non-emergency transportation to either facility is available upon request.
QF Care Clinic, located on the premises of Education City Community Housing, is the primary health care center for all Education City students free of charge (please take your ID). Staffed by two general physicians, nurses and a dentist, the clinic provides routine curative health services and basic dental care. No appointment is required to see a physician. Additionally, the Kulud Pharmacy, located in the HBKU Student Center, provides medications for a fee.

The small Recreation Center Clinic in the Recreation Center is staffed by a nurse for first aid assistance. It is located in the Recreation Center on the first floor, just past the swimming pool changing rooms.

Health Insurance
NU-Q requires all enrolled students to have Qatar national health coverage, as well as supplementary private insurance. The State of Qatar provides national health coverage for all residents of Qatar. International students are eligible to obtain a national health card after receiving their residence permit. All students with a current resident permit must submit a copy of both sides of the valid national health card to the Health and Wellness Office by August 15. Additionally, all students will automatically be enrolled in the StudentCare Plus Insurance Plan at no premium cost. This comprehensive health insurance plan includes access to medical, financial and travel benefits, as well as coverage for pre-existing medical conditions. All students must complete the Application for Insurance NU-Q StudentCare Plus Plan and submit it to the Health and Wellness Office by August 15. Failure to comply with the above requirement will result in a registration hold due to noncompliance with the health insurance policy.

Immunizations
NU-Q requires all enrolled students to provide documentation of vaccination or immunity from polio, diphtheria, tetanus, hepatitis B, measles, mumps, rubella, varicella and meningitis. In addition, all students are required to have documentation of tuberculosis skin test taken within the last year. All students, with the assistance of their health care provider, must submit a completed copy of the Immunization and Tuberculosis Screening Certificate to the Health and Wellness Office by August 15. Failure to comply with the above requirement will result in a registration hold due to noncompliance with the immunization policy.

Fitness and Recreation
Through its Division of Student Affairs, NU-Q encourages students to maintain personal fitness and to participate on various NU-Q sports teams. A wellness counselor in Student Affairs coordinates NU-Q health and wellness programs.

Northwestern University in Qatar students have access to the Hamad Bin Khalifa University (HBKU) Student Center and the Education City Recreation Center. HBKU has a fitness room with various cardiovascular and strengthening equipment, and the EC Recreation Center offers several fitness classes, a multipurpose gym and a wood-floor gym, both marked for a variety of sports; a fitness room with exercise bikes, treadmills and other equipment; a weight room; outdoor basketball and tennis courts; a grass football field; a wood-floor aerobics gym; squash courts; a running track and field; an Olympic-size swimming pool; and changing rooms with lockers.

Health and Wellness Counseling
NU-Q recognizes the importance of physical, psychological and social wellness and how they can affect a student’s ability to learn. NU-Q offers counseling, referrals for medical care and health and wellness promotion to meet and address the needs of the student population. The Health and Wellness Office is located in the NU-Q Student Affairs suite; services are free to enrolled students.

Campus Regulations

Northwestern University in Qatar Campus Security
Security within Education City is provided by the Qatar Foundation. Incidents such as medical emergencies, road traffic accidents and fire-related emergencies should be reported promptly to the Qatar Foundation Emergency Control Room at 974-4454-0999 or to the duty watch commander at 974-5556-4701.

If needed, assistance from the Northwestern University Police Department in Evanston is available to NU-Q students. The Evanston department is responsible for crime prevention, law enforcement and emergency management on both the Evanston and Chicago campuses. University Police officers are on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and can be reached at 001-847-491-3456 in Evanston.

Motor Vehicles

NU-Q students driving motor vehicles within Education City are required to obtain permits from the Qatar Foundation. Applications are available from NU-Q’s Division of Student Affairs.

Personal Losses

Neither Northwestern University nor Northwestern University in Qatar is responsible for the loss of or damage to personal property belonging to students in any building it owns, whether the loss or damage occurs by theft, fire or an unknown cause.

Identification Cards

The University identification card (WildCARD) identifies registered students and should be carried at all times. The WildCARD is the property of the University and is not transferable; its privileges may be canceled at any time the card is misused. Students are required to surrender their WildCARD to University officials upon request.

The student’s ID number is encoded on the card and indicates whether the student is currently registered and if the card is valid. The card is needed to borrow books from the Northwestern University in Qatar library.

Lost or stolen cards should be reported to the WildCARD office, where replacement cards are issued.
Key to Course Numbers

Although the course numbers in this catalog are as complete and exact as is possible at the time of printing, some changes may occur later, and courses may be dropped or added. The University reserves the right to cancel classes for which registration is not sufficient.

Numbering System

Three sets of characters denote all courses:

• The first set is the subject code indicating the area of study.
• The second set is a three-digit course number:
  • 100-level courses are primarily for freshmen and sophomores, usually without college prerequisite.
  • 200-level courses are primarily for freshmen, sophomores and juniors, sometimes with the prerequisite of a 100-level course in the same or a related department.
  • 300-level courses are primarily for upper-class students, with the prerequisite of junior standing or a 100- or 200-level course in the same or a related department.
• The third set (one, two or more numbers) usually indicates whether the course is part of a sequence.
  • -0 = one-semester course
  • -1,2 = two-semester sequence
  • -1,2,3 = three-semester sequence

Special characters identify certain groups of courses. If a course is taught only through a Northwestern study abroad program, the designation SA is included with the course number. Other designations may be used by the individual departments.

If a course carries less or more than one unit of credit, the number of units follows the course title in parentheses — e.g., (1.5) or (1.5 units) = 1.5 units of credit.
School of Communication

Mastering the arts of communication opens doors to a wide range of careers and professional relationships. The communication degree at NU-Q is offered by the School of Communication at Northwestern University. The school is committed to building the basic and applied sciences of communication; developing theoretical and critical perspectives on communicative performances; creating new technologies for communication and new modes of artistic expression; and helping students to be more effective in their work, at home and in civic life by applying principles of communication. Undergraduates work in partnerships with world-class faculty to create new understandings and develop new approaches to human communication. As on the Evanston campus, the curriculum at NU-Q provides students with a solid liberal arts education that broadens and enriches their studies of human expression and interaction.

Founded by Robert Cumnock in 1878, the School of Communication is now the third largest of Northwestern’s six undergraduate divisions. It annually enrolls more than 1,200 undergraduate majors (including students on the Qatar campus) and 400 graduate students.

Originally, the curriculum and its related activities were concerned with public speaking and interpretative reading as performing arts. As the field grew, the school added instruction in theatre, speech pathology, audiology, radio, television, film and other specialties in oral communication. Throughout its history the school has often been a pioneer in new fields of study, including film and audiology.

Today the five departments of instruction represent the diverse spectrum of study in the field of communication: communication sciences and disorders; communication studies; performance studies; radio/television/film; and theatre (including dance). All departments offer graduate courses. The communication program on the Northwestern University in Qatar campus offers the major in media industries and technologies (MIT), which combines aspects of the Evanston campus’s communication studies and radio/television/film programs.

Academic Policies

All undergraduate students enrolled in School of Communication courses are held accountable to Northwestern University’s standards of academic integrity (see Academic Integrity in the Undergraduate Education chapter of this catalog). They also are responsible for compliance with the following standards:

- Attendance is required in all courses, and excessive absence is cause for failure.
- Credit will not be given for two courses that meet at the same time.
- All assigned work must be completed to receive course credit.
- Assignments must be turned in on time, and examinations must be taken as scheduled; assignments cannot be made up or grades of incomplete given without prior approval from the instructor.

Academic Program

Major in Media Industries and Technology (MIT)

The MIT program prepares students for management and creative roles in communication and media industries, and for responsible civic participation in the world of global media. Its graduates will be effective researchers and storytellers skilled at information and interface design, as well as creators of new ideas, images and communication technologies. Graduates may produce and write for television; work in film studios, radio stations and talent agencies; manage digital information; design web sites; and analyze audiences and the impact of media. They may pursue careers in creative industries, advertising, corporations, nonprofit organizations, cultural associations, and government agencies and ministries, among other places.

Residency and Grade Requirements

The last 16 of the 32 courses required for the MIT major must be taken while the student is enrolled as an undergraduate in Northwestern University. The student must be enrolled in the NU-Q communication program for the last two semesters before receiving the degree. Credit for work taken at other colleges or universities requires approval by petition.

Of the required 32 units, 25 must be completed with grades of A, B or C (grades of C- do not satisfy this requirement). A minimum of 10 courses must be taken outside the MIT major program. All courses applied to the major and all distribution courses must be completed with a grade of C- or higher. Courses offered in the MIT program may not be taken for a P grade. D and P grades may apply only to elective requirements. A student may only earn a P in two courses.

A transfer student is required to complete at least 12 courses in the MIT program. A placement interview with an adviser is required at the time of first registration for all transfer students.

Course Requirements
The 32 units required for the major in media industries and technologies include distribution requirements, courses in the major and elective courses. (Most courses earn 1 unit; some earn .5 units.) Students should consult with their advisers about selecting courses to fulfill their distribution and elective requirements.

English Composition
Nothing is more important in communication, journalism or the liberal arts than the ability to write clearly. Writing is the foundation of critical thinking, persuasion and interdisciplinary understanding. Effective Fall 2013, every first year student, regardless of major, prior test scores or prior non-Northwestern in Qatar coursework must enroll their first semester in English Composition 103. Every student also will be required to complete a second writing course.

Distribution requirements
10 courses outside of the major, including
  • 1 required course in general communication (GEN CMN 201)
  • English 103-1: English Composition
  • 1 additional writing course
  • 1 quantitative or logic course; classes will be approved by the director of the MIT program
  • 6 additional courses in any non-major area, at least 3 at the 300 level or equivalent

Major courses
  • 6 core MIT courses: 190, 220 and any four from 205, 212, 214, 230, 260, 270
  • 8 upper-level classes, at least 4 in communication theories, histories, and institutions and at least 2 in media technologies and practices (consult the program for the current list of eligible courses)
  • 2 additional courses in any combination of the following: MIT classes at any level; up to 2 credits of MIT internship; up to 2 credits of MIT independent study

Electives
  • 6 additional courses in any area at any level
  • Up to 2 credits each of internship and independent study may be included

Internships
Students are strongly encouraged to pursue an internship for credit during the summer or the academic year. Credit is assessed based on the number of hours or weeks worked. Up to 2 units may be counted toward the major, and up to 2 more units toward electives.

Courses

Courses in General Communication
GEN CMN 201-0 Research Methods Foundations of knowledge in many areas of the field, including the nature of interpersonal interaction and the impact of mass media; how communication researchers do their work; and how to judge the quality of research products. Required for MIT majors.
Core MIT Courses

MIT 190-0 Media Construction Introduction to the core components of media: idea, image, sound, and sequence, as well as instruction in the technical fundamentals involved in shooting and editing video. Students work with SLR and digital video cameras, Photoshop, and Final Cut Pro editing software. This course is a prerequisite for all upper-level production courses. Required for majors; typically taken the freshman year.

MIT 205-0 Theories of Persuasion Survey of major theories that explain how to change another person’s attitudes and behaviors. Applications to persuasion within a variety of contexts, including relationships, organizations, legal campaigns and the mass culture.

MIT 212-0 Exploring Global Media Introduction to core concepts in global media. One continuing theme is the interplay between the global and the local. Includes exploration of global media development in historical, technological, cultural and social terms.

MIT 214-0 Communication, Technology and Society Examination of how communication technology shapes society, and how people shape technologies and their effects. Explores social, economic and political influences on technology design and the implications of communication technologies for relationships, communities, organizations, design and public policy.

MIT 220-0 Analyzing Media Texts Introduction to the study of the moving image. Basic elements of style across media, including film, television and interactive media. Focus on close analysis of texts to find significance. Prerequisite for upper-level MIT courses. Required for majors; typically taken the freshman year.

MIT 230-0 Understanding Media Contexts Media industries as social and cultural forces; economic and political dimensions of the global media.

MIT 260-0 Foundations of Screenwriting Introduction to writing for the screen (film, television, and/or computer), including structure, character, dialogue, format, voice, scope, pace and context. Lecture/workshop. Prerequisite for upper-level MIT writing courses.

MIT 270-0 Theories of Mediated Communication Introductory survey of current issues in research on the mass media, the Internet and computer-mediated communication.

Upper-Level and Elective MIT Courses

MIT 298-0 Undergraduate Seminar Special topics.

MIT 312-0 History of Film International survey of motion pictures as a distinctive medium of expression from its prehistory to the present.

MIT 313-0 Documentary Film: History and Criticism Survey of the schools, styles and purposes of documentary film as a unique form of artistic expression and sociopolitical persuasion.

MIT 321-0 Radio/Television/Film Authorship Idea of authorship in the media and an examination of different uses of author theory related to the work of particular artists.

MIT 322-0 Radio/Television/Film Genre Exploration of the concept of genre in the media through focus on particular case studies and examples, with reference to popular American and global forms.

MIT 325-0 Film, Media, and Gender Explores issues of gender in film and media. Introduces students to major debates and theories regarding gender and sexuality in the media.

MIT 349-0 Internship in Radio/Television/Film (1–4 units) Students work in production departments of radio and television stations and film studios. Guided research and reading.

MIT 351-0 National Cinema Historical aspects of cinema in a specific nation, region or geopolitical sphere, or a social/ cultural/intellectual movement within the general evolution of cinema.
MIT 355-0 Audience Analysis Methods used to analyze electronic media audiences; emphasis on quantitative research techniques. Prerequisites: GEN CMN 201 or equivalent and GEN CMN 202 or equivalent

MIT 360-0 Topics in Screenwriting Various approaches to screenwriting, emphasizing different modes and genres, such as the short film, the feature film, screenplays based on preexisting material, the teen film and interactive computer scenarios. May be taken twice for credit, depending on changes in topic. Prerequisite: 260

MIT 372-0 Editing The technique and art of editing for film. Topics include editing for continuity, controlling pace and rhythm, and editing nonlinear narratives. Prerequisites: 190, 380 and sophomore standing

MIT 375-0 Designing for the Internet Design concepts as they relate to the web in an intensive studio/workshop environment. Prerequisites: 190 and sophomore standing

MIT 379-0 Topics in Film/Video/Audio Production In-depth study and practice of one area of film, video or television. May be taken more than once for credit, depending on changes in topic. Prerequisite: 380.

MIT 380-0 Lighting and Cinematography Techniques, aesthetics, and technologies of lighting and camera skills, including film and video. Prerequisites: 190 and sophomore standing

MIT 382-0 Sound Production Techniques and technologies of audio production, emphasizing location recording. Survey of techniques used for film, video, experimental audio and radio production. Postproduction includes work with a digital audio workstation. Lecture/laboratory.

MIT 388-0 Internet and Society The social, cultural, political and economic implications of information technologies.

MIT 389-0 Global Culture and Communication Examination of current topics and events to familiarize students with the cultural dimensions of globalization and the critical importance of culture and communication in understanding the globalized world.

MIT 390-0 Directing Single-camera dramatic directing, including visualization and breakdown of scripts, camera blocking and working with actors. Prerequisites: 190 and sophomore standing

MIT 392-0 Documentary Production Students examine documentary practices and produce their own shorts. Prerequisites: 190 and sophomore standing

MIT 393-0 2-D Computer Animation Students explore techniques in the 2-D sphere and incorporation of visual design principles.

MIT 395-0 Computer Animation: 3-D The fundamental concepts and techniques of 3-D computer modeling and animation. Use of concepts acquired in camera-based production techniques to create a rendered animation. Prerequisites: 190 and sophomore standing

MIT 398-0 Undergraduate Seminar Student- or faculty-initiated seminars to consider special topics. Credit for 398 may be earned more than once.

MIT 399-0 Independent Study Prerequisite: consent of senior associate dean after submission of petition

Theatre Course Electives
THEATRE 119-0 Production Laboratory (0 units) Registration for students fulfilling production crew requirements.
THEATRE 140-1,2 Theatre in Context 1. Combination of lecture, discussion, assignments, play viewing, and text analysis. 2. Seminar in three sections emphasizing theatre history, literature and criticism; research; and writing skills. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

THEATRE 140-3 Production in Context A combination of lecture, discussion and production lab participation implementing the directing and design process of a theatrical production. Prerequisite: consent of instructor

THEATRE 143-0 Acting: Basic Techniques Introduction to the study of acting: sensory response, imagination and characterization work leading to prepared scenes from selected plays.

THEATRE 243 Acting I: Principles of Characterization Focuses on basic concepts of acting, dramatic imagination, and dramatic characterization. Prerequisites: 140-1, 2 (or equivalent) and consent of instructor

THEATRE 341 Acting II: Analysis and Performance Theory, principles and techniques of interpretation of drama from the point of view of the actor. Prerequisite: consent of instructor

THEATRE 399-0 Independent Study Prerequisite: consent of senior associate dean after submission of petition.
Medill School of Journalism

The journalism degree at Northwestern University in Qatar is offered by the internationally respected Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois. Since 1921, Medill has epitomized excellence in journalism and journalism education in the United States, and it is doing the same today in Qatar. Now, as the media everywhere face unprecedented change, Medill’s undergraduate program is leading the way in preparing multimedia journalists who can help shape and navigate a dynamic media landscape. A Medill education ensures that students become skilled not only in writing, reporting, editing, production and critical thinking, but also in using multiple platforms (print, online, broadcast and wireless) so that they can create compelling, high-impact journalism for increasingly interactive audiences.

Producing such versatile graduates requires broad faculty expertise. All NU-Q journalism faculty members teach essentially the same curriculum taught in Evanston. The Medill curriculum emphasizes journalism excellence, multimedia storytelling, ethics and professional behavior, audience understanding, research, quantitative literacy, visual literacy, and creativity.

The Bachelor of Science in journalism (BSJ) degree program develops well-rounded students who are broadly educated, knowledgeable about diverse cultures and engaged in global issues. Journalism students take about one-third of their courses in the journalism program (which includes a track in public relations); the other two-thirds are in the liberal arts and sciences.

Medill’s valuable “learn by doing” philosophy extends beyond the traditional classroom to real-world training and immersion experiences. In a sophomore-year course, for instance, NU-Q students report from various locations in Doha. During their junior year, students participate in the Journalism Residency, an academic internship that gives them invaluable real-world experience and networking potential within a media company. They receive course credit for working alongside professional mentors at newspapers, magazines, broadcast and online news operations, or public relations agencies.

Many graduates of the journalism program find rewarding careers in print, broadcast or online journalism, public relations, or related fields directly after graduation. Some pursue graduate education, including the two Medill graduate programs offered on the Evanston campus. The master of science in journalism (MSJ) program offers advanced study in specialized subject reporting (such as business, politics and science) and techniques (such as magazine writing and editing, interactive media, and videography); the master of science in integrated marketing communication (MSIMC) program has specialized concentrations in brand strategy and advertising, direct and interactive marketing communications, corporate communications and public relations, marketing analytics, and media management.

Academic Policies
Requirements for the Degree of Bachelor of Science in Journalism:

- A minimum of 32 units must be completed at the college level. (Generally, 1 unit is the equivalent of 1 course.)
- Normally, students must take the final 16 units at NU-Q. Credit for summer work taken at other colleges or universities may be counted as part of the final 16 units if approved in advance.
- Of the 32 units, at least 20 must be earned in courses outside of the journalism program, and at least 12 must be earned in journalism program courses. Students with more than 32 units may take additional journalism units.
- No course may be counted in more than one requirement category.

English Composition
Nothing is more important in communication, journalism or the liberal arts than the ability to write clearly. Writing is the foundation of critical thinking, persuasion and interdisciplinary understanding. Effective Fall 2013, every first-year student, regardless of major, prior test scores or prior non-NU-Q coursework must enroll their first semester in English Composition 103. Every student will also be required to complete a second writing course.

26
Grade Requirements
Students must achieve a minimum grade point average (GPA) of 2.0 in all non-journalism courses taken for a letter grade and a minimum GPA of 2.25 in journalism courses. In addition, all journalism students are subject to the following grade requirements:

- The journalism GPA is an average of the grades (including F’s) in all journalism courses attempted.
- Students who earn a grade of D or worse in a journalism course must retake the course until they have earned a C- or better, except JOUR 301, which students must retake until they have earned a grade of C or better.
- When journalism courses are repeated, both grades are computed in the GPA; one course does not substitute for another.
- Before starting the Journalism Residency, students must earn a grade of C or better in JOUR 301: Enterprise Reporting in Diverse Communities AND have a minimum GPA of 2.25 in journalism.
- Students may earn grades of C- or worse in no more than one-fifth of the courses taken for graduation.
- All incomplete grades, unless made up satisfactorily by the end of the subsequent semester, are counted as F’s.
- Students who do not meet the minimum GPA requirements are placed on academic probation. Continued poor performance will result in further academic disciplinary action, including academic probation or dismissal.
- Students are required to take the following courses for letter grades (A, A-, B+, B, B-, C+, C, C-, D, F):
  - All distribution requirements
  - All courses in the liberal arts concentration
  - All journalism courses (except for the Journalism Residency and courses offered by the faculty under the P/N option)
- Other courses may be taken pass/no credit (P/N) if that option is available. No more than two courses taken P/N may be counted toward the 32 units required for graduation (excluding the Journalism Residency). Only one course per semester may be taken P/N.

Internships, Field Studies, and Special Programs
Internship employment by newspapers, magazines, radio and television stations, online media, governmental agencies, and advertising and public relations agencies may be available to students in the journalism program at NU-Q, particularly during the summer. Many employers look to NU-Q for talented young journalists who can be introduced to their organizations through internships. The school encourages these opportunities as a means of enriching students’ education but gives academic credit only for the Journalism Residency. Journalism students in Qatar may be eligible to study for one or more academic terms on the Evanston campus.

Academic Program

Medill Curriculum Requirements
Arts and Sciences (20 units)
In order to ensure that graduates of the program have pursued liberal arts studies preparing them to be informed journalists, 20 of the required 32 courses must be in subjects other than journalism. Students should consult with their academic advisers about selecting the 20 courses in arts and sciences, which must include the following areas:

Distribution requirements (16 units)
- Art or art history (1 unit): Courses in acting, art appreciation, or music appreciation also fulfill this requirement
- Economics (1 unit): 1 course in Principles of Economics or equivalent
- History (2 units): 2 courses, each treating a different era, area or topic
- Literature (2 units): 2 courses, each treating a different genre or literary tradition
• Political science (2 units)
• Religion or philosophy (1 unit)
• Science, mathematics, or logic (2 units, one of which must be statistics)
• Concentration (5 units): The concentration consists of 5 courses in one discipline (e.g. economics, political science, a natural science, philosophy or one area of study, e.g. the Middle East.), including three 300-level courses. The concentration ensures that graduates have a deep understanding of at least one field other than journalism. Courses taken to fulfill the concentration may include courses taken to fulfill the distribution requirements listed above. It is the student’s responsibility to consult with an academic adviser early on to determine whether sufficient courses in a particular area are available to fulfill a concentration.

Journalism (minimum of 12 units)

Core (5 units)
- JOUR 201: Editing, Writing and Multimedia Storytelling
- JOUR 202: Introduction to 21st-Century Media
- JOUR 203: Visual Journalism
- JOUR 301: Enterprise Reporting in Diverse Communities
- JOUR 370: Media Law and Ethics (five-week intensive course)

Journalism Residency
Students choose one of the following programs for the Journalism Residency:

Newspaper/Online
- JOUR 342: Advanced Online Storytelling (five-week intensive course)
- JOUR 345: Journalism Residency in Newspaper/Online: Reporting (2 units; 10-week full-time internship)

Magazine
- JOUR 321: Magazine and Feature Writing
- JOUR 342: Advanced Online Storytelling (five-week intensive course)
- JOUR 355: Journalism Residency in Magazine: Writing (2 units)

Broadcast
- JOUR 323: Broadcast Production and Presentation
- JOUR 342: Advanced Online Storytelling (five-week intensive course) or JOUR 368 - Documentary
- JOUR 365: Journalism Residency in Broadcast: Reporting (2 units)

Public Relations
- IMC 331: Public Relations Strategies and Writing
- JOUR 342: Advanced Online Storytelling (five-week intensive course)
- JOUR 395: Journalism Residency in Public Relations (2 units)

Electives (3–4 units minimum)
The following journalism electives may not be offered every semester or even every year:
- IMC 330: Principles of Public Relations
- IMC 332: Case Studies in Public Relations and Integrated Marketing Communication
- JOUR 250: Media Literacy
- JOUR 321: Magazine and Feature Writing
- JOUR 323: Broadcast Production and Presentation
- JOUR 342: Advanced Online Storytelling
- JOUR 368: Television Documentary
- JOUR 381: Business Reporting
- JOUR 390: Special Topics (including Field Reporting trips)

Courses
Note: Some courses will be offered only occasionally.

IMC 330-0 Principles of Public Relations Introductory course in which students design, implement and evaluate a public-relations plan using strategic and integrated communication methods. Prerequisite: Sophomore standing.

IMC 331-0 Public Relations Communication Strategies and Writing Students apply strategic communication skills in writing various public-relations pieces for print, electronic and audiovisual media. Prerequisites: JOUR 201 and IMC 330

IMC 332-0 Case Studies in Public Relations and Integrated Marketing Communication In this final course leading to the Public Relations Certificate, students analyze contemporary issues and landmark case studies in public relations and integrate theory, research, planning, communication and evaluation skills to plan and execute public-relations campaigns for specific organizations. Prerequisite: IMC 330 and 331

JOUR 101-0 Introduction to Journalism An overview of journalism fundamentals that explores how news is defined, reported, written and produced across print, broadcast and online media platforms in Qatar and around the world. Offered only in Qatar to students in the Qatar Foundation’s Academic Bridge Program.

JOUR 201-0 Reporting, Writing and Multimedia Storytelling Introduction to the fundamentals of journalism necessary for any platform or storytelling format. Includes news- and information-gathering; story construction; using basic numbers and data to tell a story and assess information; editing and presentation; ethical issues while covering stories; and visual literacy. The course emphasizes basic reporting and writing skills, plus still photography, photo editing, audio recording, audio editing and audio slideshows.

JOUR 202-0 Introduction to 21st-Century Media An exploration of the forces and issues that influence and shape journalism and the media, using history to illuminate current trends. Topics include: What is journalism? What outside forces influence change in media and journalism? The relationship between journalism and community; media and audience trends; the business and economics of media; the purpose and role of journalism in a democratic society; and standards and ethics for journalists in any society.

JOUR 203-0 Visual Journalism Students shoot and edit video and still photography and record and edit audio for the purpose of telling stories. Taken before 301. Prerequisite: JOUR 201

JOUR 250-0 Media Literacy Media actors, including journalists and editors, often do things in ways that do not provide you with the best information, or in the most appropriate way. You, not your friends, professors, relatives or even journalists, must sift through the flashy, sexy and often distracting messages you receive every day to uncover information to help you best order your life. Communicators want you to read their publications, watch movies, sign petitions, follow them on Twitter, support a political campaign, buy things or simply wear your seatbelt. Sometimes they are honestly trying to help you; other times, they certainly are not. This class will teach you to think more about who is providing you with news and information, what their interests are and what your interests are, and will promote strategies for finding news that was gathered and packaged for you with sincere intentions.

JOUR 320-0 Interactive News The craft of digital storytelling, with emphasis on creating compelling packages for the web and other digital platforms (such as PDAs) using a variety of narrative formats, interactive tools (such as Flash) and other digital content, including blogs, RSS feeds and citizen journalism. Prerequisites: 301

JOUR 321-0 Magazine and Feature Writing The craft of magazine and feature writing, with emphasis on character, scene and theme development, story architecture, voice, alternative story forms, in-depth reporting, public service journalism, and marketing ideas for articles. Prerequisites: 301; 310, 311, or 312
JOUR 323-0 Broadcast Production and Presentation The art and craft of storytelling for television, including practice in field reporting and producing packages ranging from one- to three-minute television news pieces. Prerequisite: JOUR 201

JOUR 342-0 Advanced Online Storytelling Students work in groups on a single reporting project that incorporates video, audio, interactivity and photography. Prerequisite: JOUR 301.

JOUR 345-0 Journalism Residency in Newspaper/Online (2 units) Hones reporting and news writing skills through practical assignments, including multimedia opportunities whenever possible, under deadline pressure and close editorial supervision. Prerequisites: JOUR 342

JOUR 355-0 Journalism Residency in Magazine (2 units) Exploration of aspects of magazine writing and reporting. Practical assignments, including print and web content whenever possible, in a magazine office with deadline pressure and close professional supervision. Prerequisites: JOUR 321 and JOUR 342

JOUR 365-0 Journalism Residency in Broadcast (2 units) Gathering television news in the field; writing scripts, readers, voiceovers, packages and on-camera news for reporters and anchors. Practical assignments in a broadcast newsroom under close professional supervision. Prerequisites: JOUR 323 and either JOUR 342 or JOUR 368

JOUR 368-0 Documentary Formats used in audio and video documentary production, with emphasis on transforming a major research effort into a radio or broadcast program or a multipart series. Prerequisites: JOUR 301 and JOUR 323

JOUR 370-0 Media Law and Ethics The legal and ethical framework defining media freedoms and constraints in the United States, including copyright and trademark issues. Historical context and focus on the evolution of constitutional, statutory, judicial and ethical standards.

JOUR 375-0 Literary Journalism A survey of the work of several print and broadcast journalists to explore the intersection of journalism and literature; analysis of the relationships between form and content within the historical contexts in which pieces were produced. Prerequisite: JOUR 301

JOUR 388-0 Internship (0 units) Student-initiated internships in journalism. Prerequisites: sophomore standing and consent of the senior associate dean.

JOUR 390-0 Special Topics Specialized courses offered from time to time by faculty. They may explore journalism as it relates to business, education, the environment, energy, religion, and health and science. Other 390 courses include field reporting trips led by faculty, either in the summer or during the winter break. Students may take more than one special topics course.

JOUR 395-0 Journalism Residency in Public Relations (2 units) Students will work in a corporate communications department or for a public relations agency full time for 10 weeks.

JOUR 399-0 Independent Study Academic work sponsored and supervised by a faculty member working one-on-one with a student. Prerequisite: consent of the director of journalism.
Liberal Arts Program

Liberal Arts courses at NU-Q strive to duplicate the numbering system used by the Judd A. and Marjorie Weinberg College of Arts and Sciences on the Evanston campus. Courses are taught at the 200 and 300 level in a variety of disciplines, such as English, history, sociology, political science and religious studies. Topics are listed below.

Courses

ECONOMICS 242 Principles of Economics Examines central economic ideas, such as supply and demand, market structures, consumers, public policy and monopoly. Islamic finance is also included.

ENGLISH 103-1 English Composition Focuses on developing proficiency in writing and editing for academic purposes by addressing writing as a process, academic research methods and the rhetorical situation. Practical emphasis will be placed on editing, grammar, word choice and style.

ENGLISH 103-2 English Composition Expands proficiency in academic writing by focusing on style, invention and research. Through exposure to canonical rhetorical texts alongside cultural works, academic articles, popular texts and contemporary theories, students will be encouraged to develop critical responses, podcasts and research essays.

ENGLISH 212, Introduction to Drama Addresses two basic questions: How does the choice of drama/theatre affect the ways in which a story is told? What are the fundamentals of Western drama? Reading a range of canonical texts, students will also study theories of drama as they are articulated in such genres as tragedy, comedy, realism, etc.

ENGLISH 242 Topics vary. Offerings include:
- Introduction to American Short Fiction examines how imagination, distilled to intensify meaning through events, converges into a reflection of ourselves in 10,000 words or less. Origins of this genre and its connections to the oral tradition of storytelling will also be explored.
- Twentieth-Century American Literature traces the evolution of American literature through the study of such genres as fiction, poetry and non-fiction prose and their relationships to major political, social and aesthetic concerns of the century.
- Modern Middle East Literature surveys the literary landscape from Morocco to Iran and from Turkey to Pakistan in order to analyze how literature is used to form identity and chronicle disrupted histories.

ENGLISH 369 Studies in African Literature Centers on a range of twentieth century literary expression. Topics for discussion include: orature and its implications for poetry, drama and fiction; independence and postcolonialism; and fictions of memory. Substantive attention will be devoted to writing by women and/or about Muslim cultures.

ENGLISH 379, English Special Topics Varies in focus. Offerings include:
- Analysis of Autobiography studies how writers select moments from their pasts, construct funny, painful or strange narratives that are shared with an audience, producing what in recent years has proved to be one of the most popular genres on best-seller book lists.
- (Tres)Passing and the Performance of Identity is a multi-genre study of twentieth-century literary and cinematic works that focus on the phenomenon of “passing” and the reinvention of identity through socially constructed performances of race, class, gender or sexuality.

HISTORY 242 Topics vary. Offerings include:
- History of the Modern Middle East is designed to familiarize students with key developments from the late eighteenth century to the present. Though the focus is on political history, the movements of political elites are contextualized within broader social histories of local communities and religious and non-religious intellectual history, as well as global economic changes.
• Introduction to Modern European History offers an analysis of the ideas, people and events that shaped and reshaped Europe from the start of the French Revolution in 1789 to the end of the Cold War in 1991. Special attention will be given to the different ways popular forms of media responded to and, in turn, influenced the major themes of modern European history.

• Political History of the Modern Middle East contextualizes currents of political change from the 18th century to the present within broader global power struggles, secular and Islamic intellectual influences, social forces, and economic history. Material covers the heartlands of the Middle East, with particular reference to Turkey, Iran, Egypt, North Africa and Israel/Palestine.

• 20th-Century World History is designed to be an analysis of the most influential ideas, peoples and events that shaped the world we live in today. Using an exemplary, national case study method, the course will address events such as empire and independence, communist revolutions, the Great Depression, and genocide.

HISTORY 387 Special Topics in History Varies in focus. Offerings include:

• Islam and the Shaping of African History begins with the acknowledgement that when Muslims in Mecca were a beleaguered few, Africa became the home of the first Muslim community in history. Today, Africa may well be the only continent in the world with a Muslim majority. How did Islam come to have such primacy in African history? What are the currents of Islamic thought that have come to shape African lives? How did Africans affect Islamic religious culture?

• British India, 1600 to 1947 explores the different imperial encounters that took place between Britons and Indians from conquest and subjugation, to negotiation and collaboration, and finally struggle and resistance. By so doing, the course proposes a revision of the traditional binarism of imperial narratives.

• American Popular Culture examines the history of American popular culture from 1900 to the present day with a goal of looking beyond a history of major events and big names to lived experience represented in books, magazines, music, radio, films and television consumed by ordinary Americans and, indeed, much of the rest of the world.

PHILOSOPHY 242 Topics in Philosophy At present, centers on Introduction to Logic. This course focuses on the study of what counts as a good reasoning. By examining the structure and various components of an argument, students will learn how to analyze and diagram both modern propositional and classical categorical logic, as well as reflect upon logical reasoning used informally about everyday issues.

POLITICAL SCIENCE 242 Topics in Political Science Varies in focus. Offerings include:

• Debates in Comparative Politics provides a dynamic introduction to current debates in comparative politics. By the end of the class, students will be able to discuss the pros and cons of various democratic systems in the world, as well as understand the types of political regimes in the world today and the ways in which they transition from one to another. Through in-depth case study analysis of Russia, India and Pakistan, students will also be able to discuss the politics and political systems of these countries, and understand why they have developed in the way they have.

• American Government and Politics explores the history of the US constitution, the three branches of government, the news media, public opinion and political participation, campaigns and elections, and the political culture of America. We will follow American elections with interactive blogs, and end with a comparative and critical perspective on US democracy.

• Gulf Society and Politics investigates important themes of contemporary Gulf society and politics, such as the impact of oil on society and politics, inclusion and exclusion in citizenship, and the changing roles of and opportunities for women. Political readings are combined with literature from the Gulf region, including excerpts of Sophia Al-Maria’s The Girl Who Fell to Earth. Students should end the class with a better understanding of the rapid development and transformation of Gulf society and politics, and the challenges still facing the region today.

POLITICAL SCIENCE 387 Special Topics in Political Science Varies in focus. Offerings include:

• The Arab Spring analyzes this critical turning point in Middle East history by examining the following questions: What were the causes of these uprisings and why were some initially successful while others were brutally repressed? What are the likely outcomes: the spread of democracy or the reclaiming of power by repressive rulers?

- Democracy and Democratization addresses such questions as: What is democracy? What are the challenges to establishing and consolidating a democracy, and to what extent does democracy solve—or exacerbate—existing problems within and between states? How durable is it, what are the chances of a return to authoritarian politics, and what are the prospects for future democratization in this century? Events from the “Arab Spring” will also be included.

- Liberalism, Marxism, Arab Nationalism and Islamism covers various ideologies and schools of Arab thought from the late 19th century up to current times. Additionally, it examines intellectuals’ perspectives on the decline of the Arab world and their offerings for revival, approaches to traditional as well as modern values and endeavors to (re)formulate a collective identity.

- Contemporary Arab Thought studies various ideologies and schools of Arab thought from the late 19th century up to current times. The intent of both teaching and class discussion will be to engage with the main principles of these ideologies and their thinkers, their perspectives on the decline of the Arab world and their offerings for revival, approaches to traditional and modern values and structures, and endeavors to (re)formulate a collective identity.

- Politics of Legitimacy takes as its jumping-off point the explosion of protests and revolutions throughout the Arab world, beginning in December 2010, that brought attention to the importance of legitimacy for the long-term stability of political regimes. Many political observers and analysts attribute the stability of the oil-rich Gulf countries, in particular Qatar, to the amount of money that the governments use to “buy off” their citizens. This class goes beyond this explanation to look at the politics of legitimacy in Qatar, Oman and the UAE, studying both economic distribution and nation-building strategies. Students will end the class with a better understanding of the importance of political legitimacy to state stability in the post–Arab Spring world, even in oil-rich states.

- Qatari Women: Engagement and Empowerment in Civil Society investigates female engagement and empowerment in Qatar by linking the study of civil society in the Middle East with specific concerns about gender, oil wealth and modernization. This class provides a hands-on research experience that highlights the concerns of Qatari women and their engagement with their families, community, economy and polity through the lens of critical ethnography. Guided by the available political science literature, students will combine their interview and observational evidence with unique survey data to create multimedia projects (documentaries, museum installations) and a final essay on the drivers and obstacles of Qatari women’s engagement in politics and society.

RELIGION 242 Varies in focus. Offerings include:

- Overview of Islamic Intellectual History examines the development of the classical Islamic scholarly disciplines from the eighth to the twelfth centuries C.E., with some reference to the medieval and modern periods. It will focus on key intellectual disciplines such as jurisprudence (fiqh), Prophetic traditions (ḥadīth), Qur’anic exegesis (tafsīr), theology (kalām), philosophy (falsafa) and Sufism (taṣawwuf).

RELIGION 387 Special Topics Varies in focus. Offerings include:

- Islam in America analyzes the intellectual history and spectrum of Islam in America from its earliest presence in the “New World,” through the rise of the Nation of Islam, to contemporary movements. Themes include notions of orthodoxy/heterodoxy, the influence of culture on religious practice, immigration and alienation, racialized religious ideologies, and the current diversity of Muslim voices.

- Modern Reform Movements in the Muslim World explores the origin and development of key religious movements such as Wahhabism, Salafism, “neo-Sufism,” the Muslim Brotherhood and Muslim millenarianism. By interrogating the nature of renewal and reform, and the influence of modernity on movements of change, we will evaluate the extent of doctrinal and social change occasioned by such movements in the last two centuries.

SOCIOLOGY 242 At present focuses on Cinema and Society. This course examines the relationship between cinema and society from a sociological perspective and within a global context. Topics of study include the relationship between culture and production, consumption, identity, social movements, and the Hollywood, Bollywood and Middle East film industries. Students will design individual and group projects and collaborate on a sociology-themed blog.

SOCIOLOGY 387 Special Topics in Sociology Varies in focus. Offerings include:

- Youth Cultures in the Middle East recognizes the centrality of Arab youth to some of the most contentious regional debates about issues such as tradition versus modernity, global versus local and conformity versus resistance. Further, it analyzes questions raised by the contemporary communications environment and young people’s interactions with new forms of social exchange.

- Classical and Contemporary Sociological Thought offers an overview of how classical and contemporary theorists have attempted to answer “big” questions about society, including issues related to race, social class, gender, stratification and inequality, social control, power, and culture. A final project will combine fieldwork and theoretical analysis, resulting in a substantial theory-based paper and final presentation.

In addition, students are able to cross-register for courses at the other U.S. universities in Education City. Whether taking courses at NUQ or at other Education City campuses, students should consult with their faculty and academic advisers about selecting courses to fulfill their distribution requirements.
Middle East Studies Certificate

The most up-to-date information about the Middle East Studies (MES) certificate may be found on the website http://www.qatar.northwestern.edu/academics/liberal-arts/certificate-in-middle-eastern-studies.html

Briefly stated, the requirements are as follows:

- 4 graded courses for a total of 4 academic credits from the approved list of courses offered in Education City (see web site for most current list)
- 3 of these courses must be taken at NUQ
- a minimum of 2 courses must have been at 300-level
- No course can count towards both the major and the certificate

Courses with 50% MES content, relevant independent study, study-abroad or Middle East North African classes taken in Evanston may be counted. Though proficiency in Arabic is important for serious study of the Middle East, courses in which students either learn the language or improve their reading, writing and speaking skills will not be counted for this certificate.

In choosing to construct a meaningful course of study, students should consult with a member of the MES certificate committee (see below). In addition, they should consult with their academic adviser in order to ensure that the certificate articulates well with their major, concentration or internship plans. Students who wish to have the Middle East Students Certificate recorded on their Northwestern University Transcript may not count a single course for both the certificate and their major.
