Courses previously accepted for the Media and Politics minor

Students: Please note that the requirements for the minor have changed as of AY 2018-2019. It is no longer a matter of checking off six courses that satisfy the minor. Instead, students must make the case for course inclusion based on their own learning goals and those of the minor. That is, students interested in the minor must generate—in consultation with their mentor—a course plan based on their interests and learning goals.

This list is meant only as a guide; not every course will count for the minor in all circumstances. NU-Q students must be aware of double-counting rules (courses that count for the major cannot count for the minor) when constructing their course plan. When in doubt, please consult your academic advisor.
